

Stop Abuse For Everyone A Human Rights Agency

Stop Abuse For Everyone (SAFE) is a national non-profit organization that provides unique services for domestic violence victims and helps those who typically fall between the cracks of domestic violence services. The information we provide is for (but not limited to) straight men, LGBT victims, teens, and the elderly. SAFE works to bring community awareness to injustices that the media and other organizations tend to overlook. We promote that there should be services for all victims and accountability for all perpetrators.

Our organization views domestic violence as a human rights issue. If you are in an abusive relationship, it shouldn't matter whether you are male or female, gay or straight, old or young - services should be available to you. We work to enlighten communities on different types of issues individuals face that are often underrepresented. Through our educational, media, and training programs we inform the public on what to do if they become a victim. SAFE strives to address individual concerns and provide information to fill in the gaps in domestic violence services.

Stop Abuse for Everyone (SAFE) was selected as one of only 50 promising strategy programs in the nation to prevent domestic violence by the National Crime Prevention Council. The National Crime Prevention Council is the non-profit "take a bite out of crime" organization funded by the U.S Justice Department.

Our Mission: is in our name "Stop Abuse for Everyone."

SAFE accomplishes our mission with the development and dissemination of educational materials, advocacy, resources, referrals, outreach and services, and programs to foster community involvement.

Our Goal is to promote education and public awareness. SAFE educates the general public, health organizations, criminal justice agencies, and service providers on violence prevention.

We also have advocacy programs to bring awareness of issues to community leaders/policymakers on legislative reforms.
